This Directory of Community Activities brings together material never included in one directory before. Its aim is to present a comprehensive summary in outline form of what Clevelanders do when they are organized for other than commercial or social purposes. Much matter is entirely new to local directory publications. Professional societies, labor unions and trade associations are listed more extensively than ever before attempted. The expansion of certain groups, such as that of Civic Organizations, is one indication of a policy of listing more than purely social work agencies, a policy begun in early volumes of Cleveland social work directories.

Moreover, the range of description of many types of agencies and associations has been enlarged, with a view to a more intelligent understanding of these organizations. The book indicates in a summary way what are their aims and what have been their accomplishments during the preceding year. We are confident that we have done this at no cost to the utility of the volume as a daily aid to the professional man or woman. We feel certain that it has enhanced the value of the book to those whose interest is primarily that of intelligent citizens without professional need of a directory.

This is the latest of a series of publications going back a number of years. The Associated Charities in 1908 and 1910 issued a "Cleveland Charities Directory," which when next published by that agency in 1914 was known as the "Cleveland Directory of Charities and Social Work." In its most recent form, when issued by the Welfare Federation in 1918, it was known as the "Directory of Social Agencies."

This evolution of names is an epitome of the growth of a new attitude toward the needs of a great city. This attitude reveals itself in the discarding of a narrowly remedial point of view and in the constantly wider acceptance of the idea that these needs are to be met by united, affirmative community co-operation.

A complete picture of Cleveland's activities is presented by the two mutually complementary books, this Directory and the Cleveland Year Book for 1921. The Year Book is published as a companion volume of the Directory. The Year Book presents in summary form under its several chapter headings the accomplishments of the community in the fields indicated.

The Cleveland Foundation is under greatest obligation to those whose expert knowledge and criticism has been invaluable in shaping the material here presented. Errors no doubt have been made and the editors will be grateful for suggestions which will improve subsequent editions.

Actual collecting and editing of material has been largely in the hands of Dr. Maurice R. Davie of Western Reserve University and Dr. C. E. Gehlke, Harmen B. Flinkers and John W. Love of the Division of Statistics of the Foundation.

RAYMOND MOLEY,
Director of the Cleveland Foundation.

HOW TO USE THIS DIRECTORY

This Directory is arranged in the following manner:

- (1) Table of contents; groupings alphabetically arranged;
- (2) List of organizations; organizations arranged alphabetically within the grouping;
- (3) Alphabetical index of individual organizations.

If you know the name of the organization, agency, or institution you are looking for, consult the index.

If you know its general functions but not the name of the organization, look in the table of contents for a grouping where it might be included; then consult the text.

For a list of all the agencies or organizations doing work of a particular kind, look in the text under the respective heading, paying attention also to the cross references at the end of each grouping.

While great care has been used in grouping organizations according to their aims, it should be understood that the grouping is not a classification. It was necessary to use some scheme of grouping and the arrangement adopted was believed simplest and most logical, though by no means the only one possible.

The purposes of organizations listed are stated as expressed by the officers of the organizations themselves—the Foundation in listing them in no way endorses their aims.

CLEVELAND ASSOCIATED CHARITIES
Electric Building
Main 4321 Erie 112

Org. 1884; inc. 1900. Member Welfare Federation.

The successor of the Bethel Associated Charities which had become in 1884 a merger of the Cleveland Bethel Union and the Charity Organization Society. In 1909 established the Clearing House for Cleveland's social agencies. While institutional memberships in the American National Red Cross were operative this organization was one of the earliest and longest in service in that capacity.

Purpose: To develop normal family life through securing for each family from the community full opportunity for health, education, work, play, and spiritual influence, initiating mass reform movements, and aiding in their application to individuals.

Activities: Relief of needy families in their homes. Rehabilitation of families. Discriminating treatment of homeless and transient individuals and families. Education of the community in social activities. Promotion of co-operation in charitable and social work. Development of preventive measures which shall lessen poverty and dependence.

EMERGENT RELIEF is given promptly to families in which destitution exists. Continued adequate relief is given when knowledge of conditions reveals its necessity and plan of treatment involving relief has been made.

REHABILITATION. More important than emergent relief is the re-establishment of the family on a normal basis. Through the skilled services of trained workers the cause of the destitution is sought and removed, if possible, and all available preventive and remedial measures are used to re-establish the family. Families are kept intact when there is any prospect of improvement.

As an important factor in family rehabilitation a home economics program is being carried out in five districts by five visiting housekeepers who do case work with families, act as consultant dietitians for the district, teach food values, sanitation and the making of household budgets, and establish Nutrition Centers for undernourished children.

CARE OF HOMELESS AND TRANSIENT. Homeless and convalescent men and women are cared for temporarily at the Wayfarers' Lodge, 1440 W. 10th St. People having an established residence in other cities are returned to their homes or to relatives who will care for them.

EDUCATION of the community in social activities is carried out through training classes, publications, speeches, district committees and an information bureau at main office, where the Receiving Secretary, Miss Elsie McChesney, gives information and advice on social questions. In connection with Western Reserve University School of Applied Social Sciences the general secretary and the supervisors of training conduct the following courses in social work:

(a) Methods and Principles of Social Case Work with Families, with field work in the districts of the Associated Charities under supervision. An intensive course of nine months for college graduates qualifying for positions in family case work agencies.

(b) Case Work with Families—a brief course for staff members of other social agencies.

(c) Community Resources—a brief course for staff members of other social agencies.

(d) Family and Community Problems—for nurses planning to engage in Public Health or other Social Service.

(e) Opportunities in Family Case Work for volunteer workers.

Supervisors of training—Marion Cook, Della Katzenstein.

CO-OPERATION is promoted through District Committees, lectures, actual work with families and case conferences with other agencies.

PREVENTIVE MEASURES necessary are developed as a succession of family problems brought before the District Committee reveals the special needs of the district, or as study of case records shows a community problem to be solved.

A Mental Test Registry is conducted as a basis for study of feeble-mindedness in the community.

District Offices and Committees

Helen W. Hanchette, Supervisor of Case Work and of District Offices. The District Committee holds case conferences on individual family problems, arouses the local community to meet the needs revealed by their study of social problems, and interprets to the public the task of social reconstruction.

SOCIAL SERVICE CLEARING HOUSE

Electric Building
Main 4321 Erie 112

Org. 1909. By the committee on co-operation affiliated with the Associated Charities, by whom it was developed and financed until 1916 when the support was taken over by the Welfare Federation, and the management placed with a board composed of one representative from each of the participating organizations. Known as Charities Clearing House until 1918.

Purpose: To promote interchange of information between agencies whose interest may center on the same family. Through such interchange the client's welfare is safeguarded and he is relieved from unnecessary investigation and the confusion of conflicting plans of treatment; the various agencies gain a better understanding of the nature and extent of service each is prepared to render; and duplication of effort is made unnecessary, resulting in a saving of time and money.

Activities: The Clearing House maintains a card index, which carries only identifying information and the name of each agency which had indicated its interest in the family. Each agency inquiring is given the name of the agencies already appearing on the identification card, and they in turn are all notified of interest of the new agency. The Clearing House carries no treatment or history facts. It is simply a guide to show where such information can be found. Case conferences are called for consideration of especially difficult situations. A person or agency consulting the Clearing House does not bring a family to the attention of any agency, nor give publicity of any kind to its condition. This service is given only to those who have a clearly defined social interest.

During past fiscal year, reported on 53,056 inquiries from 80 organizations. 57 per cent of these were known to more than one organization, and 32,316 notifications were sent.

WELFARE FEDERATION OF CLEVELAND Electric Building Main 1

Org. and inc. 1913.

Purpose: To effect a voluntary working alliance of the civic and social agencies of Cleveland for their mutual strength, economy and efficiency and for a unified attack on the causes of social distress. It seeks thus to promote the social welfare of the entire city and to foster the wholesome development of its human resources.

The first federation of social agencies in Cleveland was formed in 1913 under the name of the Cleveland Federation for Charity and Philanthropy. The idea originated with the Chamber of Commerce, and federation followed several years of careful work and investigation by its Committee on Benevolent Associations. In 1914 the Welfare Council was organized, a voluntary combination of social agencies and civic bodies for purposes of mutual counsel and co-operation. These two organizations were united under the present name in 1917. In 1920 the Welfare Federation had 85 financially participating member agencies and 18 co-operating members.

Activities: The work of the Welfare Federation falls under two broad divisions:

BUDGET PLANNING AND FINANCE: The Federation studies and plans budgets of financially participating agencies. Secures and analyzes monthly reports of their income, expenditures and services. Promotes efficiency in methods of administration. Employs certified accountants to audit accounts of member agencies, and systematize their accounts and put them on a uniform basis. Directs the securing of financial support for member agencies and its equitable distribution. At present support is derived through participation in the Community Fund.

SOCIAL PLANNING, RESEARCH AND EDUCATION: Studies social service problems and needs. Correlates and fosters social movements. Promotes social legislation and preventive and constructive measures by utilizing knowledge secured by field experience of workers in its constituent organizations. Organized as it is, the Federation becomes an instrument for assembling, interpreting and translating this information into action for bettering conditions. This it does through committees and conferences on such subjects as publicity, volunteer workers, delinquency, recreation, child welfare, admissions, legislation and other and special problems as they demand attention. An Endorsement Committee passes upon all money raising projects which ask its approval. The Federation office acts as a clearing house for information in regard to social needs and agencies in Cleveland.

Organization and Management: Each member organization elects annually two representatives to the General Board, the basic governing body. This board meets quarterly, discusses problems, backs constructive movements and each year elects for a term of three years eight members of the Board of Trustees, which body has the privilege of electing six additional members annually. The Board of Trustees serves without remuneration, meets monthly and is responsible for the conduct of the work. Business is executed by the Director and staff.

During the past fiscal year the Welfare Federation has conducted its regular activities as above outlined. Special work has been done under the general direction or immediate supervision of the Federation along the following lines:

A survey has been made of the health and hospital resources of Cleveland and a program of education, prevention and provision for future needs has been formulated. There has been conducted an expert study of the provision for the care of delinquent, dependent and neglected children in Cleveland, and recommendations for the future have been worked out. The Cleveland Betterment Council has been formed "to keep Cleveland clean and make Cleveland beautiful." A publicity policy has been developed which is designed to inform Cleveland about agencies of the Federation—why they are needed, what they are doing, and how they are doing it. A careful study has been made of all salary and wage positions in federated agencies, with a view to classifying them and working toward a standardization of salaries. Also special committees have given study and attention, resulting in constructive action, to the public employment service, boarding homes for girls, location of settlements, the finding of a central office building for downtown social agencies and other subjects.

Budget for 1921: Office, total budget expense, $75,740; earnings, $100; endowment and misc., $400; Community Fund, $75,240.

RELATION OF HUSBAND AND WIFE

The Head of the Family—The Choice of a Dwelling—The husband is the head of the family. He may choose any reasonable place or mode of living and the wife must conform.

Duty of a Husband to Support Family—The husband must support himself, his wife and his minor children out of his property or by his labor. If he is unable to do so, the wife must assist him so far as she is able. It is to be noted, however, that there is no statute making it a crime for a husband or a wife to desert or refuse to support the other, though it is a crime to desert or neglect a child under 16, or a wife who is pregnant.

Interest in Each Other's Property and Dwelling—Neither husband nor wife has any interest in the property of the other except a dower interest in real estate and upon death a distributive share in the personal property of the other as explained below: neither can be excluded from the other's dwelling as long as they are living as man and wife and nothing has occurred entitling either to live apart.

Support of Wife When Husband Neglects to do so—If the husband neglects to make adequate provision for the support of his wife, any other person may, in good faith, supply her with necessaries for her support and recover the reasonable value thereof from her husband.

Support of Wife When She is Abandoned or Leaves Her Husband Justly—If the husband abandons the wife or sends her away or treats her so harshly or so conducts himself as to justify her in leaving him, he is liable for her necessaries, even though he gives notice not to trust her.

May Contract the Same as if Unmarried—Husband or wife may contract with each other or any other person the same as if unmarried.

Cannot Alter Their Legal Relations or the Duty to Support Minor Children—Husband and wife cannot by any contract with each other alter their legal relations, as for instance grant each other a divorce. They may, however, agree to an immediate separation, and may make provision for the support of either of them and of their children during the separation. It is to be noted, however, that the primary obligation of the father to support his minor children cannot be escaped by him even where he and his wife have entered into an agreement of separation whereby she is to take care of them, as this duty cannot be changed by agreement.

Not Answerable for Each Other's Acts—Neither husband nor wife as such is answerable for the acts of the other.

Parents—Parents as such are not liable for damages sustained by third parties by reason of the wrongful acts of their children.

Support When Wife Leaves Husband Unjustly—If the wife leaves him without just cause and without his consent he is not liable for her necessaries.

Support of Wife if They Part by Consent—If the husband and wife part by consent and he secure to her a separate maintenance, suitable to his convenience and circumstances and pays it according to agreement or pays alimony allowed by court, he is not answerable for her necessaries.

The Wife's Dower Right—A widow or widower is entitled to an estate for life in one-third of practically all the real property which the deceased consort owned at any time during the marriage. It is to be noted that it is an estate for only the life of the survivor and applies to only one-third of the deceased consort's real estate.

It cannot be destroyed by a conveyance of the property without the surviving consort's consent.

The Husband or Wife's Right to a Distributive Share in the Personality—Neither husband nor wife has any interest in the personal property of the other during each other's life; and either can convey his personal property during his life without the consent of the other so as to give absolute title to the purchaser. This of course differs from the conveyance of real estate of either husband or wife without the consent of the other because in that case as above mentioned the one not consenting retains his dower interest in the property conveyed.

A Husband and Wife, However, Have a Right to the Distributive Share in the Personal Property of the Other Upon the Death of the Other and This Cannot be Divested by Will—This distributive share is as follows: If no children or their legal representatives survive the husband or wife their legal representatives survive the husband or wife the widow or widower is entitled to all the personal property left after payment of debts of the estate, but if the decedent left children the widow or widower is entitled to one-half of the first $400 and to one-third of the remainder of the personal property left after the payment of debts.

Right Under a Will—Where a will is left by the decedent, the surviving husband or wife can either elect to take what is given under the will or may insist upon the dower right in the real estate together with the distributive share in the personal property as above described.

DIVORCE AND ALIMONY

Distinction Between Divorce and Alimony—Divorce has for its purpose the dissolution of the marriage relation. Alimony the securing of means of support and property. Often wives who have good grounds for divorce have scruples against applying for the same. In such cases they can obtain every remedy in an alimony proceeding that they could in a divorce suit, except the actual severance of the marriage tie. Of course in a divorce petition alimony may also be and generally is asked for; and this is true whether there are any children or not.

Temporary Alimony and Custody of Children—For the period during which the case is pending the court is of course asked to make some temporary provision for the support of the plaintiff, and the minor children; for their custody and control; and for an order restraining the defendant, if it is necessary, from interfering with or molesting the plaintiff. This request is generally granted, except that an injunction restraining the defendant from seeing or molesting the plaintiff is generally limited so as to give the defendant the right at reasonable times to see his children unless such a limitation would be harmful or inadvisable.

Temporary Alimony Nearly Always Granted—Temporary alimony pending the trial, for the support of the wife and such children as are or may be placed in her custody by the court is always granted unless she has means of her own or the husband has no property or earning capacity. This is true even where she may prove to be in the wrong upon the final hearing of the case, as upon the preliminary hearing for temporary alimony the court does not concern itself with the merits of the case, but only with the amount that the wife ought to be awarded as temporary alimony during the pendency of the suit for her expenses and her and her children's support, considering her station in life, her means, her husband's earning capacity and property, and the ages of the children. An example of a temporary alimony decree would be one whereby a husband is ordered to pay his wife a definite amount weekly, say $10, for the support of herself and children.

Injunction to Restrain Husband or Wife from Disposing of His Property—When it is made to appear that the defendant is about to dispose of or encumber his property so as to defeat the other party in securing any alimony, the court will enjoin him from so doing.

To Whom the Care, Custody and Control of Children Will be Granted—In determining to whom the care, custody and control of children shall be granted either at the preliminary or final hearing of an alimony or divorce suit, the court places the father and mother on an equality, in so far as their mere rights as parents are concerned. The court will grant the children to that one of the parents who will best subserve their interests—their best interests being the deciding factor.

Children Ten Years of Age May Choose Parent—Children 10 years of age or more may choose which parent they prefer to live with, unless the parent selected is unfitted to take charge. This right to choose the parent also applies to proceedings to modify former orders of the court as to custody of children and not merely to original actions. If both parents are improper persons to have the children the court may put them in charge of some reputable person or children's home.

Support of the Children—Partial Custody—The court may order either or both parents to support or help support the children no matter who be their custodian. The court may, however, at its discretion permit the parent deprived of the custody of the children to visit them and to have temporary custody of them. Thus a mother may be granted the custody of the children, but the father may be allowed to visit them or have them on certain days.

Permanent Division of Property on Final Hearing—Upon the final hearing of an alimony suit or divorce suit in which alimony is asked, the court makes a permanent order whereby a final division of the property of the parties is decreed. This decree may order the alimony to be paid in real or personal property or both, or in a sum of money payable either in gross or installments.

The Amount of Alimony Depends Upon Who is at Fault—The amount of alimony decreed depends partly upon whose aggression caused the trouble and partly upon the wealth and property of the respective parties.

Remedy Where Alimony Decree is Disobeyed—It sometimes happens that orders of the court as to the payment of alimony are not lived up to, as for instance where a man is ordered to pay his wife $10 a week and fails to do so. In such case the delinquent, if he is within the jurisdiction of the court, may be cited into court to explain his delinquency. If he has no valid excuse the court may order him punished for contempt of court in disobeying the court's orders.

When Valid Alimony Decree Cannot be Granted—It is to be noted, however, that an alimony decree or an injunction, in order to be valid, can only be granted against a person who was duly served with process and thus came under the jurisdiction of the court. Thus an alimony decree or an injunction cannot be granted in Cuyahoga County against a man living in Chicago and who never was served in Ohio, except that property within Cuyahoga County may be decreed as alimony to a wife although the husband was outside the state and could not be served; i. e., even though a husband cannot be reached within the state any property that he may have in the state may nevertheless be subjected to the payment of alimony to his wife. Again, if a valid decree was rendered against a man served in Cuyahoga County he could be punished for contempt if he disobeyed it, only so long as he remained there, but if he left the state he could not be brought back for punishment.

Deserting Husbands—Thus we are confronted with this strange situation, that nothing can be done, to punish or collect money from a man if he has left the state and deserted his wife, unless at the same time he has abandoned either children under 16 or a pregnant wife. Of course if he has property in Cuyahoga County the property can be taken under an alimony decree rendered even while he was out of the state.

Neglecting a legitimate child under 16 or a wife who is pregnant or abandoning such child or wife is a felony. Bringing back and punishing husbands who desert children under 16 or a pregnant wife—Abandoning children under 16 or a pregnant wife being a crime as above mentioned, a husband guilty of this offense can be indicted in this state and if he can be located he can be brought back by extradition from other states. The authorities will not proceed to bring a husband back until the indictment has actually been brought against him. And they insist, if he is to be brought back, that he actually stand trial and answer to the indictment. They will not bring him back merely to get him into the jurisdiction so that money can be collected from him.

Causes for Which Divorces May be Granted—A divorce may be granted for the following causes: (1) That either party had a husband or wife living at the time of the marriage from which the divorce is sought. (2) Wilful absence of either party from the other for three years. (3) Adultery. (4) Impotency. (5) Extreme cruelty. (6) Fraudulent contract. (7) Any gross neglect of duty. (8) Habitual drunkenness for three years. (9) The imprisonment of either party in the penitentiary under sentence thereto; but the petition under this clause shall be filed during the imprisonment of the adverse party. (10) The procurement of a divorce without the state by a husband or wife by virtue of which the party who procured it is released from the obligations of the marriage, while the same remains binding upon the other party.

One Year's Residence in the State Required of Plaintiff in Divorce—A plaintiff in a divorce suit must have been a resident of the state at least one year before the filing of the petition for divorce. This does not apply to petitions for alimony alone wherein a divorce is not asked for.

Where Action Must be Brought—All actions for divorce or alimony must be brought in the County where the plaintiff has had a bona fide residence for thirty days immediately preceding the filing of his petition, or in the county where the cause of action arose; and the court shall hear the case whether the marriage took place, or the cause of divorce occurred within or without the state.

Costs Must be Paid in Advance—Before a divorce or alimony suit can be filed $10 costs or satisfactory security for them must be deposited with the clerk of the court.

Exception Where Affidavit of Inability to Pay Filed—Where the plaintiff makes affidavit to his inability to pre-pay costs or give security for them, which affidavit is approved by a judge, the petition may be filed.

A Decree as to Alimony or Custody of Children is Appealable—The jurisdiction of the court as to these is continuing and they may be altered as circumstances change. Thus if a wife be decreed $10 weekly alimony in one year and the husband's earning capacity should be doubled next year she could ask for an increase in her alimony allowance. Again if when the divorce is granted the custody of the children is given to the wife, but she later becomes unfit to have their custody, or it becomes preferable for some other reason for the husband to have them, the court may re-award their custody to him.

Cross Petition for Divorce, Alimony or Both—If one party sues for divorce or alimony, the other party may file a cross-petition asking for a divorce, alimony, or both.

The grounds for an alimony suit are very largely the same as for a divorce suit.

SUPPORT OF PARENTS

Support of Aged Parents by Children—Any adult child living in this state having a parent in this state who is without means of subsistence and unable because of age to be self-supporting—which child, being able to earn or being possessed of means sufficient to provide such parent with necessary shelter, food, care and clothing neglects or refuses to do so, is criminally liable. The crime of failing to support aged parents is regarded as committed in the place where the adult child resides and not where the neglected parent resides and the proceeding must therefore be brought at the place where such adult child is.

SUPPORT OF MINORS

Majority—The age of majority for men is 21—for women 18.

Neglecting Minors Under Sixteen or Pregnant Women—Neglecting a legitimate child under 16 or neglecting a wife who is pregnant is a felony.

Abandoning Legitimate Children Under 16 or a Pregnant Wife—Abandoning a legitimate child under 16 or leaving a pregnant wife with intent to abandon her or the unborn child is a felony.

Neglecting, Abandoning or Torturing Children Under 16—For a parent or one controlling a child under 16 to torture, torment, cruelly or unlawfully punish or negligently deprive such child of necessary food and clothing or shelter is punishable by fine and imprisonment.

CONTROL OF MINORS BY THE JUVENILE COURT

Jurisdiction

(A) Over children. The court designated as The Juvenile Court has jurisdiction over delinquent, neglected and dependent minors under the age of 18 not inmates of a state institution or any institution incorporated under the laws of the state for the care and correction of delinquent, neglected and dependent children.

(B) Over adults. It has jurisdiction also over parents, guardians of such children or any person, persons, corporation or agent of any corporation responsible for or guilty of causing, encouraging or contributing toward the delinquency, neglect or dependency of such minor.

What Are Delinquent Children?—A delinquent child includes any child under 18 who violates any law of the state or any city or village ordinance or who is incorrigible, habitually idle, who wanders about the streets at night time, uses improper language, is guilty of immoral conduct, has vicious associates, in short, any child whose habits require correction.

What Are Dependent Children?—A dependent child is one that is under 18 and is dependent upon the public for support or which is destitute, homeless or abandoned, or which has not proper parental care or whose home is an unfit place for it or whose environment is such as to warrant the state in the interests of the child in assuming its guardianship.

Care of Dependent Children, How Secured—Any person having knowledge of a minor under 18 who appears either neglected, delinquent or dependent may file with the Juvenile Court Clerk an affidavit setting forth the facts, which may be upon information or belief, whereupon the minor in question and the person having charge of him shall be cited to appear before the court, or a warrant issued for their arrest.

Commitment to County Jail Pending Hearing—Pending final decision of a case the Juvenile Court may commit any person cited to appear or arrested, except a minor under 14, to the county jail. The judge may, pending final disposition of a case, leave the minor in possession of the person having it in charge or order that it be kept in some suitable place provided by the county or city authorities for that purpose.

Disposition of a Delinquent Child—A delinquent child may be committed by the judge to the care of a probation officer or he may allow it to remain at its home, subject to his visitation or the further order of the court, or the judge may cause it to be placed in a suitable family, subject to the friendly supervision of the probation officer. Or the court may commit it to certain industrial schools or to certain institutions within the county that may care for delinquent children or to city or county institutions suitable for the care of delinquent children and to certain other institutions. No child so committed to an institution can, however, be confined in such institution after becoming 21. Such child shall be subject to the control of the institution to which it is committed which may parole it on such conditions as it may prescribe and may discharge it from custody. The judge may also commit the child to the care and custody of some association that will receive it, embracing in its objects the care of neglected or dependent children and that has been duly accredited, but no child under 10 can be committed to the State Industrial School.

Disposition of a Dependent or Neglected Child—The court may commit any dependent or neglected child to the care of some suitable state or county institution or to the care of some reputable citizen or training or industrial school or to the care of some association willing to receive the same which association embraces in its objects the purpose of caring for or obtaining homes for dependent, neglected or delinquent children and which association shall have been duly accredited as hereinafter provided. The judge may also commit the child to a private or public hospital.

Control of Child by Those to Whom it is Committed—Where a child is committed to the care of an association or individual, the child shall, unless otherwise ordered, become a ward subject to the guardianship of such association or individual. Such association or individual may place such child in a family home and shall be made party to any proceeding for the adoption of the child and may assent to such adoption. Such guardianship shall be merely the guardianship of the person and not of the estate of the child.

Associations Receiving Children Must Have Certificate from State Board of Charities—All associations receiving children under this act shall be subject to supervision by the Board of State Charities and it shall be the duty of said board to pass annually upon the fitness of any such association to care for children committed to it and when said board is satisfied of such fitness it shall issue to the association a certificate to that effect to continue in force for one year unless sooner revoked. No child shall be committed to any association which shall not have received such certificate within 15 months next preceding the commitment. The Juvenile Court may require from any association receiving children under the act such statements concerning any child committed to it as the court may desire.

Punishment of Parent for Failing or Neglecting to Support a Minor Child—Whoever is charged by law with the care, support, maintenance or education of a minor under 18 and being able, fails, refuses or neglects to do so or abandons such minor, is liable to fine and imprisonment.

Such offense shall be deemed to have been committed in the county in which said minor may be at the time of such neglect, non-support or abandonment.

Support of Children During Imprisonment of Parent—When a person is convicted as above mentioned, the county from which said prisoner is sentenced shall pay 50 cents for each day said prisoner is confined, to the chief probation officer of said county, to be expended by him under the Juvenile Judge's direction, for the minor dependent upon said person.

Non-Support of Illegitimate Children—The Juvenile Court has no jurisdiction whereby it can enforce support of children born out of wedlock against the natural father of such children. The mothers of illegitimate children, however, may be charged with neglect, if they wilfully fail to provide for their children. For proper procedure against fathers see "Illegitimacy," page 000.

Stepfather's Responsibility to Support—The word parent appearing in the Juvenile Code signifies father, mother, step-father or stepmother. The stepfather, who married on or since August 10, 1913, knowing that his wife was the mother of living minor children, becomes responsible for the children's support as if they were his own. This does not cancel the responsibility of the real father of the children.

CONTROL OF ILL-TREATED CHILDREN BY THE PROBATE COURT

The Probate Court May Commit Neglected Children to Orphan Asylums, Children's Homes, etc.—The Probate Court may upon complaint duly filed therein by a reputable citizen and after summons served on the parents, place minor children ill-treated, neglected, improperly cared for or allowed to beg, with orphan asylums, children's homes or benevolent societies to be cared for and placed in homes found for them, by adoption or otherwise.

Disposition of Children Cruelly Treated or in Improper Surroundings by the Humane Society Aided by the Probate Court—An agent of the Humane Society may summarily take possession of a child cruelly treated or in improper surroundings and ask the Probate Court—after due notice has been served on the custodian and parents of the child—for an order taking the child out of the possession and control of the person then having the same and conferring upon the general agent of the Humane Society the powers of a guardian as to such child. If the Probate Court deems it for the best interests of the child it shall grant such order and thereupon the general agent as such guardian may with the approval of the Probate Court provide a home for such child until majority or until the Probate Court may order it returned to its parents.

RELINQUISHMENT OR ADOPTION OF CHILDREN

A Neglected or Delinquent Child May be Turned Over by its Parents to an Institution—The parents or other persons having the disposition of a neglected or dependent child may by agreement turn it over to an approved institution to be cared for by such institution or put into a family home or if provided in the agreement, to be given out by it for adoption on proper proceedings brought.

How Child May be Adopted—An inhabitant of this state unmarried, or a husband and wife jointly may adopt a minor child through proper proceedings brought in Probate Court. Written consent to such adoption must be obtained of each of the living parents who is not insane, intemperate or has not abandoned such child; or if there are no parents living, or if they are unknown or have abandoned the child or are insane or intemperate, then by the legal guardian, or if there is no such, then by a person appointed by the court to act for such child.

Adoption by Stepfather or Stepmother—A stepfather or stepmother may petition the Probate Court for leave to adopt a minor child and for a change of its name. A written consent must be given to such adoption by the child, if 14 or over and by the mother or father of said child, if not hopelessly insane or intemperate, and if so hopelessly insane or intemperate by the legal guardian of such child.

Wife to be Examined Separately—When the husband and wife file the petition, the wife shall be examined separately and the court will refuse adoption unless satisfied that the wife desires it of her own free will.

The Order of the Court—The court will allow the adoption if satisfied of the ability of the petitioner to bring up and educate the child properly, having reference to the degree and condition of its parents and the fitness and propriety of such adoption.

Effect of the Order—By such order the natural parents shall be divested of all legal rights and obligations with respect to the child and it shall be free from all obligations of obedience and maintenance toward them. The adopted child shall be the child and legal heir of the person adopting him or her, and be subject to all the rights and obligations of a child begotten in lawful wedlock.

SCHOOL LAWS

Boys Between the Ages of 8 and 15 and Girls Between the Ages of 8 and 16 Must Attend School—Every parent or other person having charge of any child between the ages above indicated must send such child to a public, private or parochial school for the full time that the school attended is in session which shall in no case be for less than 28 weeks unless excused from attendance by the superintendent of public schools or by the principal of a private school or parochial school upon satisfactory showing that the child's condition does not permit its attendance at school or that the child is being instructed at home by a qualified person.

All Children between 15 and 16 who are not regularly employed shall be required to attend school.

Working Children Must Have Age and School Certificate—No boy under 16 and no girl under 18 shall be employed unless

(6) A certificate from the school physician that the child is physically fit to be employed in any of the occupations permitted by law for a child between 15 and 16.

Children between 15 and 16 who shall cease to work for any cause shall report that fact and the cause to the superintendent of schools or the person authorized by him and such child be required to return to school within two weeks provided other employment is not secured within such time.

Children under 16 who have not completed the eighth grade may be required, if special day schools for their instruction are established, to attend them not to exceed eight hours a week.

Boys between the ages of 8 and 15 or girls between the ages of 8 and 16 and boys between the ages of 15 and 16 not engaged in regular employment who are habitual truants from school or who while in school are incorrigible, vicious or immoral, may be dealt with by the Juvenile Court as delinquent children.

Employers May be Punished for Violation—Employers who employ minors under 16 without a school certificate and without filling the same or who fail to return such certificate to the superintendent within two days from the minor's withdrawal from service may be fined not less than $25 nor more than $50.

Punishment of Parents—Parents or other persons having in charge children required to be allowed to attend school, who fail to cause them to do so upon notice from the truant officer so to do, may be fined not less than $5 nor more than $20. Such person may upon failure or refusal to pay such fine be sent to jail for from 10 to 30 days.

Poor Children to be Assisted Where Necessary to Enable Them to Attend School—When any truant officer is satisfied that any child is unable to attend school as required by law because it is required to work at home or elsewhere in order to support itself or other persons legally entitled to its services who are unable to support themselves, the President of the Board of Education shall furnish text books free of charge and such other relief as may be necessary to enable the child to attend school as required by this act.

Where parents refuse or neglect to obtain such assistance, such child may be committed to a children's home or juvenile reformatory.

CHILD LABOR LAWS

total time spent at different employments or under different employers shall be considered as a whole.

Employers Must Keep a Register of Minors—Every person employing boys under 16 and girls under 18 shall keep a register in which shall be recorded the name, birthplace, date of birth and place of residence of every boy between 15 and 16 and every girl between 16 and 18 years of age.

Children Physically Unfit—If the inspector is in doubt as to the physical fitness of a boy or girl under 18 to work he shall require a certificate signed by the medical officer of the Board of Health certifying that said child is of sound health and physically able to perform the work required of him or her.

Children Not to be Employed in Dangerous or Immoral Surroundings—No child under 16 shall be employed or permitted to work in any employment which may be considered dangerous to life and limb, to health or morals, and under this head are enumerated many definite kinds of employment, such as working at sewing machine belts, oiling or assisting in oiling, wiping or cleaning machinery, etc., and etc. No child under 18 shall be employed in any extra hazardous employment.

Working in Certain Employments Forbidden—No minor under 18 shall work in any hotel, theater, concert hall, drug store, saloon or place of amusement where intoxicating liquors are sold. No one under 21 shall be employed in any saloon.

Females Not to Stand—No girl under 21 shall be employed in any capacity where such employment compels her to remain standing constantly.

No girl under 21 shall be employed in the transmission of messages.

It is Unlawful to Employ Any Child under 14 to take part in an exhibit, gymnastic or theatrical performance, or in any vocation injurious to the health or dangerous to the life or limb of such child. (Cases coming within the provision of this statute should be taken up with the Humane Society.)

Unlawful to Retain Wages from Minors for Breakage or Incompetency—It is unlawful for anyone doing business in Ohio to retain any part of a minor's wages because of failure to comply with rules or for breakage of machinery or for alleged incompetency to perform work in accordance with any standard of merit set up. Nor shall security to insure faithful performance be taken by the employer.

Minor's Wages Must be Agreed on in Advance—No employer shall give employment to any minor without agreeing upon his compensation, which agreement shall be furnished to the minor in writing and shall not be changed without at least 24 hours' notice to the minor. A written copy of the new agreement shall also be given to the minor.

LAWS AFFECTING THE MORALS OF MINORS

Enticing a minor to gamble or gambling with him is punishable by both a fine and imprisonment.

Permitting minors under 18 to play pool or billiards is punishable by fine. The owner or the keeper of a billiard saloon or billiard table at a public place who permits a minor under 18 to play pool or billiards in such a place or to remain in such place is punishable by fine.

Inducing illicit intercourse with a female under 18, permitting it on his premises or harboring such female in a house of ill fame is punishable by imprisonment for not more than five years or less than one year.

Selling or giving cigarettes or cigars or tobacco to any minor under 16 is punishable by fine or imprisonment.

Selling or giving away to any minor under 14 any gun, rifle, revolver, fire-arm or ammunition or knowingly permitting such minor to use the same is liable to fine and imprisonment.

It is unlawful to sell or exhibit for sale to a minor under 14 toy pistols.

No Minor Shall Enter a Saloon or other place where intoxicating liquor is sold or offered for sale except when accompanied by parents or guardian.

CHATTEL AND SALARY LOAN COMPANIES

State License Required for Those Making Salary and Chattel Loans—No person or company shall engage in business of making chattel or salary loans until it has first secured a State license. This license may be revoked if any of the provisions of law above referred to are violated, and a heavy fine imposed.

No person or company shall make a loan or furnish security under what is commonly understood to be the Chattel and Salary Loan Act at a greater total charge, including interest, than 3 per cent per month, except that on loans that do not exceed $50 in amount, an additional fee of not to exceed $1 may be collected at the time the loan is made when said loan is made for a period of not less than four months. The 3 per cent per month shall not be paid in advance, and shall be computed on unpaid monthly balances without computing interest or charges. No charge or fee shall be made unless the loan is actually made and a copy of the law pertaining to interest charges shall be furnished each borrower at the time the loan is made.

Every person or company licensed to make loans shall give to the borrower a statement upon which shall be written in ink, type-written or printed the name of the person or company making the loan, name of the borrower, amount of loan, rate or amount of interest charged, date when the loan is made, and date when payable, and shall also give the borrower a receipt for each payment of principal or interest.

Legal Interest Can be Applied on Unpaid Principal—Where illegal interest has been paid and part of the principal is still due, the excess over the legal interest can be deducted from the principal still due.

CHATTEL LOANS

The Mortgage of the Loan Companies and Their Right to Seize Goods—Practically all the loan companies take mortgages upon household or other goods as security for the loans given. These mortgages are iron clad. They (and the statutes do not prohibit this) allow the loan companies, except where the mortgage is on necessary household goods, wearing apparel or tools, to seize the goods without the aid of a court and sell them whenever in their opinion (and this means their whim according to the Supreme Court) the security is unsafe or imperilled. If the mortgage security is necessary household goods, wearing apparel or tools, these cannot be seized at any time but only through a municipal court and they are then held subject to the order of the court. They cannot be sold except by foreclosure proceeding in Common Pleas Court. Of course, whenever the loan company seizes the goods and sells them any balance left from the sale after paying itself whatever is legally due it, must be returned to the borrower.

SALARY LOANS

No assignment of any wages or earnings given to secure a loan shall be valid unless the same is in writing signed in person by the person making the loan and if he or she be married and living with husband or wife, it should also be signed by the husband or wife of such person, as the case may be. Nor shall such assignment be valid unless all blank spaces therein are filled with ink or type-writing, together with the date, names of the assignor, and assignee, the amount for which said assignment is made and also the rate of interest charged. Any assignment made in accordance with the provisions previously mentioned shall bind the wages, salary or earnings earned or to be earned until the loan secured by such assignment and the interest thereon is fully paid, and no assignment or conveyance of wages, salary or earnings to be earned in the future, given to secure a loan, shall be binding for a sum in excess of 50 per cent of the amount due, or to become due the person making such an assignment.

WAGES

When more than five men are employed by the same individual, corporation or firm, they shall be paid bi-monthly—on or before the first of each month and on or before the fifteenth of each month.

FURNITURE INSTALLMENT HOUSES

Can Seize Goods and Sell at Any Time—Nearly all the furniture installment houses take mortgages as security for the balance of the purchase money due them. The statutes governing the seizure under such mortgages are very favorable to them, more favorable than in the case of loan companies. According to these statutes the installment houses can practically at any time seize goods mortgaged and sell them. They do not, as do the loan companies in case of necessary household goods, etc., even have to seek the aid of a justice court to do this.

The Statutes as to Repaying Part of the Purchase Price When Goods Are Retaken Practically Inoperative—There is a statute that provides that in conditional sales, i. e., where the seller retains title in himself, after 25 per cent of the purchase price has been paid to the seller, he must on retaking the goods repay at least 50 per cent of the amount so paid to the buyer. But by decision of the Supreme Court this statute has been narrowed down largely and has lost much of its effectiveness. The Supreme Court has held that where goods are sold outright and a mortgage taken back on the goods so sold without anything being said as to retention of title by the seller that the conditional sale statute does not apply, and that no money has to be refunded upon goods being retaken by the seller. The rights of the parties depend, however, largely on the wording of the mortgage which has been signed and so the matter ought to be referred to an attorney.

There is an erroneous impression that installment houses can be compelled to take back goods sold and release the purchaser, thereby relieving purchasers from all further obligations. While installment houses can always take back its furniture on non-payments, it also has the right to attach wages of the purchaser for the unpaid balance and can even sell the furniture at constable's sale and sue purchaser for the difference between the balance still due and amount realized by the sale.

It is Criminal to Dispose of Mortgaged Property or Remove it From the County without the Mortgagee's Consent.LANDLORD AND TENANT

Written Notices to Quit Premises—In order to regain possession of his premises the landlord must, at least three days prior to the commencement of his action in court to evict tenant, serve the tenant with a written notice to leave the premises.

Suit in Municipal Court After Failure to Comply with the Notice—If the tenant does not comply with this notice the landlord must then file a complaint in a court. The case cannot be heard until at least three days after the filing of the complaint. Thus the tenant has at least six days to quit the premises.

What the Landlord May Do to Regain Possession Without Taking Legal Steps—The landlord may, without making himself liable, remove the windows and doors of the house or turn off the water.

Oral Lease—Leases of all sorts, whether for less or more than one year, should be in writing, but where there is entry into possession, the tenant, if an oral agreement was that he occupy for any period up to or greater than a year, will be allowed to occupy for one year.

A Tenant Paying Rent by the Month Having No Lease, Oral or Written, for a Definite Period is Presumed to be a Tenant from Month to Month, and if he holds over after the month, contrary to common opinion, that does not entitle him to stay in for the whole of that month unless the landlord by some act, such as the acceptance of rent or otherwise, expressly or impliedly has consented thereto. On the other hand, if the tenant holds over the month that very fact obligates him at the option of the landlord to pay the rent for that month. Even though a tenant from month to month has gone to considerable expense to move in he may be compelled to move at the end of the month, since he has no lease.

HEALTH

Reports should be made to the health officer as to all matters relating to contagious and other diseases, nuisances, noisome odors, cess pools, poor sanitation and ventilation, impure or adulterated food, disposal of dead bodies, disposal of garbage and any other matters that may affect the health of the city.

MECHANICS' LIENS

Claims of those who have worked on buildings or in any construction work practically always involve complicated legal questions and should be referred to a reliable attorney. It may be said, however, under certain conditions laborers and mechanics who have done work in altering, repairing or constructing a building and those who have furnished material for such work are entitled to a lien on the land and building, provided the lien is executed and filed as required by law which must be within 60 days from the last item of work.

PERSONAL INJURY CLAIMS

Personal injury claims similarly involve very complicated legal questions. Sometimes where there appears to be the greatest liability there is none and sometimes a liability exists where at first none would seem to exist. These claims should always be referred to a competent attorney.

WORKINGMEN'S COMPENSATION

Compensation from the State to Injured Employes—A State Commission has been created by law which collects funds according to certain fixed schedule from general employers. The commission holds these funds in trust to be paid to employes who are injured while at work. There are definite fixed rates of compensation for the various classes of injuries. Application for this compensation must be made to the State Commission within three months (in cases resulting fatally, six months) after the injury through its local representatives. In certain cases the employe may choose whether he will sue the employer or accept the state award. Choice of either bars his rights to the other. So many technical provisions of law operate on the facts in either case that a competent attorney should be consulted.

EXEMPTIONS

Valid claims are not always collectible, though a judgment may be obtained upon the same, because the parties indebted may hold certain property exempt from levy or sale in connection with any attempt to collect such judgment.

The laws of Ohio governing exemptions are very technical, and a great many questions arise which should be submitted to a lawyer. The following rules, however, may prove helpful:

A single man has no exemptions whatsoever. All of his wages may be taken to satisfy any kind of a claim, and even his personal wearing apparel may be seized if found detached from his person. The same applies to an unmarried woman with the exception of wearing apparel, which she holds exempt to the extent of $100, together with a few other unimportant articles.

The head of a family has exempt about $100 worth of furniture and provisions on hand, in addition to cooking stoves, heating stoves and beds. There is also an exemption of $500 in lieu of a homestead and $1,000 in homesteads for heads of families, widows and single persons having the care and support of a widowed mother.

The most important exemption, however, is the exemption of wages due the head of a family. Against any claim save a claim for necessaries a married man and the head of a family may have their wages exempt up to the sum of $150 per month. Against a claim for necessities, however, which includes claims for rent, groceries, clothing, medical attention, etc., ten per cent of a married man's wages may be taken to satisfy such a claim. If the said debtor is served with such a notice, called a "Statutory Notice," and does not comply with the same within three days or give an order on his employer for the said ten per cent., he is liable to attachment in justice court or in the Municipal Court of Cleveland, and in such event, in addition to having to pay the ten per cent, he is liable for costs in the sum of $2.50. If the debtor receive such a statutory notice it is very important that he pay, if possible, the ten per cent in order to avoid the payment of court costs. If a debtor is attached on a claim for necessities without notice the ten per cent can be taken from his wages, but the court costs will have to be borne by the attaching creditor.

MOTHERS' PENSIONS

The Juvenile Court may, upon proper application, make an allowance for the partial support of women whose husbands are dead, or become permanently disabled for work by means of physical or mental infirmity, or whose husbands are prisoners, or whose husbands have deserted and such desertion has continued for a period of three years, when such women are poor and are the mothers of children not entitled to receive an age and schooling certificate, and such mothers and children have been legal residents of this county for two years.

Amount of Allowance—A mother shall be allowed not to exceed $15 a month when she has but one child not entitled to an age and schooling certificate, and if she has more than one child not entitled to such a certificate, shall not exceed $15 a month for the first child and $7 a month for each of the other children not entitled to an age and schooling certificate. The order for such allowance shall not be effective for more than six months at a time, and may be altered or changed from time to time.

Such allowance may be made only upon the following conditions:

(1) The child or children for whose benefit the allowance is made, must be living with the mother of such child or children.

(2) The allowance shall be made only when in the absence of such allowance, the mother would be required to work regularly away from her home and children, and when by means of such allowance she will be able to remain at home with her children, except that she may be absent for work for such time as the court deems advisable.

(3) The mother must, in the judgment of the Juvenile Court, be a proper person, morally, physically and mentally, for the bringing up of her children.

(4) Such allowance shall in the judgment of the court be necessary to save the child or children from neglect and to avoid the breaking up of the home of such woman.

(5) It must appear to be for the benefit of the child to remain with such mother.

(6) A careful examination of the home of such mother must be made by the authorities.

ILLEGITIMACY

Who May Make Complaint Under the Bastardy Act: A single woman may make affidavit as to who is the father of the child.

Jurisdiction. This affidavit may be made in the Municipal Court or before a Justice of the Peace. The man so charged is bound over to the Common Pleas Court, civil branch, to be tried by jury after the child is born.

Support. If the jury finds that the defendant is indeed the father of the child, the court then fixes the amount to be paid by him for the support of the child, this amount to be paid in a lump sum or by installments. If the defendant fails to comply with the court's order, he is committed to the county jail for 90 days.

Compromise. The defendant at any time before the trial may enter into a compromise agreement with the child's mother. This agreement is acknowledged by both parties in the presence of the court, and if the defendant fulfills his obligation, no subsequent action can be brought against him to secure further support for the child.

Death of Child. If the child dies before the verdict is rendered, the court can fix only such damages as will cover the maintenance of the child and its funeral expenses. If the child dies after the verdict is rendered but before the judgment is fully paid, further payments are canceled in conformity to the above rule.

Married Woman Barred—Exception. A married woman cannot affirm that her child, born in wedlock, is the child of any one other than her husband. An exception to this rule is allowed where it can first be shown by testimony other than the wife's that her husband was inaccessible to her at the time the child was conceived.

Where Man Can Be Arrested. A man can be arrested and brought here for trial under the bastardy act if he is within this state. Under the criminal code a man can be extradited from anywhere within the United States.

Continuing Support. After the illegitimate child is born, action may be brought under the criminal code by laying an information before the county prosecutor. If the man is convicted by a jury in the criminal branch of the Common Pleas Court, he is henceforth obligated to support the child as though it was legitimate.

Degree of Proof. The degree of proof required in the Criminal Court is greater than that required in the civil branch of the Common Pleas Court under the bastardy act. In the first instance, the man's guilt must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt and by a unanimous vote of the jury. In the second instance the man's guilt must be proven by a preponderance or majority of the evidence and only nine members of the jury need concur in finding him guilty.

Extradition Barred. If an illegitimate child is born after its father has left this state, the process of extradition cannot be employed to bring the father back to Ohio to stand trial.

Legal Control of Illegitimate Child. The mother of an illegitimate child has the sole right to its custody and control.

Right of Inheritance. An illegitimate child is a legal heir to its mother's estate but not to its father's estate.

Married Man's Liability. The fact that a man is married and has a family grants him no immunity from the operation of the laws set forth herein.

NATURALIZATION

How to Become a Citizen. The ways by which a person may become an American citizen are: First, every one born in this country, regardless of the citizenship of his parents, is an American citizen; Second, by a legal process called naturalization, persons born abroad are permitted to become citizens. This process consists of five steps.

1. First Papers. Declaration of Intention. First Papers or Declaration of Intention may be secured at any time after arrival in this country by any alien 18 or over. Witnesses or knowledge of English not necessary. The cost is $1, but the papers are invalid after seven years.

2. Certificate of Arrival. Before applying for second papers, the certificate of arrival must be secured by all aliens arriving in this country after June 29, 1906. This is secured free by mailing a "Request" application, together with the first papers, to the Bureau of Naturalization, Washington, D. C. If the alien came to this country before that date, no Certificate of Arrival is necessary.

3. Petition for Naturalization. After a residence of at least five years in the United States and one year in the state, the alien may file his petition for naturalization. He must have first papers at least two years old and not over seven. He must appear with two witnesses who are citizens of good moral character. If he has not lived in Ohio the necessary five years, these witnesses must have known him for at least the year he has lived in the state and he must produce affidavits from witnesses in other states proving his five year residence in the United States. The cost of the petition is $4. First and second papers may be secured from either the U. S. district clerk's office, No. 322 Postoffice, or the clerk of Common Pleas Court, 254 New Court House.

4. The First Examination or Preliminary Hearing. The would-be citizen appears before the naturalization examiner within ninety days after filing his petition and must prove that he is able to exercise the duties of citizenship properly. In preparation for this examination it is strongly urged that all foreign-born attend the free citizenship classes given by the Board of Education and the diploma from these classes will be accepted in lieu of an examination.

5. The Final Hearing. As the last step, the applicant appears in open court with his witnesses. He is examined by the judge and given the oath of allegiance. He is then granted the certificate of naturalization which makes him, his wife, and all children under 21, citizens of the United States. He is then able to vote and exercise all the rights of those born in this country.

Citizenship applications and explanations of the naturalization law, with the changes made as a result of the war, will gladly be given by the Americanization Information Bureau, Old Court House.

LANGUAGE SCHOOLS CZECH LANGUAGE SCHOOLS

Certain Bohemian organizations maintain schools for the study of the Czech language. The direction of the schools is under the Bohemian Freethinkers Organization with headquarters in Chicago.

There are five schools in the city under the management of a local school association, composed of 18 teachers and an equal number of supporters of the schools, who meet monthly to confer about common needs and conditions.

These schools are supplementary to and not a substitute for the public schools; and sessions are held outside of public school hours. Their sole purpose is to teach Czech language and history.

Classes are held in school rooms in the following Bohemian Halls:
Bohemian National Hall, 4939 Broadway.
Bohemian Sokol Hall, 4314 Clark Ave.
Bohemian American Hall, 8802 Quincy Ave.
Jan Amos Komensky Hall, E. 131st St. and Lambert Ave.
Bohemian Lodge Hall, 11306 Buckeye Rd.

GREEK CATHOLIC UNIATE SCHOOLS

The service of the Greek Catholic Uniate Church is entirely in choral music. No instrument is permitted. In certain portions of the service the priest withdraws into the sanctuary and the congregation must continue the service without his assistance. This demands absolute familiarity with the service and explains why the church school exists.

The curriculum includes instruction in the church service and also training in church doctrines, history and liturgy, as well as instruction in the national language, history and literature.

These schools do not take the place of the public schools, but are supplementary to them. They are held outside of public school hours, and attendance is not compulsory except as public sentiment demands it.

Each parish has its so-called "church school," in most cases using the church basement as the school room.

For list of these schools see church list, page 44.

GREEK ORTHODOX SCHOOLS

These schools are similar in every respect to those of the Greek Catholic Uniate Church.

Each Greek Orthodox church has its school for the purpose of religious instruction and the school sessions are held outside of public school hours.

For list of Greek Orthodox schools, see church list, page 44.

HEBREW SCHOOLS

The purpose of these schools is to teach the Hebrew language and literature. For the most part the conversational method is used and all instruction is in Hebrew. Both Biblical and secular histories are taught, but creeds and dogmas are not. Instruction is given in Jewish life, customs and spirit with the idea of making the student a nationalist rather than a religionist.

These schools are for the most part situated in buildings separate from the church proper. Sessions are held usually between 4 P. M. and 8 P. M.; and sometimes on Sunday. Attendance is purely voluntary and there is no coercion on the part of those in charge of the schools.

Schools are located as follows:

Cleveland Hebrew School and Institute. E. 55th St., cor. Portland Ave. Branch schools located at 1212 E. 105th St.; Cedar Ave., cor. E. 84th St.; Mt. Pleasant Ave. and E. 116th St. Instructors 15.
